LAURA WHITE

Laura White!

Foreword

The moving finger writes; and having writ,
Moves on; nor all your piety nor wit
Shall lure it back, to cancel half a line,
Nor all your tears wash out a word of it.

Laura, why couldn't
I have known you before this year? I feel that I have been the loser. My best wishes will be yours
I sincerely hope
I never see you again!

How long a wonderful journey before you & I shall ever meet again

Margaret

With next grades

SENIORS -

Class Poem

On the outskirts of these school days,
'Twill what has been and what shall be,
Here we stand—the mighty Seniors,
Knowing not the Future's riddle.
To our school we whisper "Farewell,"
To our friends we murmur parting,
Then we'll step into the future,
Step with courage, all defeating;
For by worthy word and action
Victory comes with every meeting.

At the door from past to future,
Pause we only for a moment—
Pause to cast a glance behind us,
Ere the days are gone forever.
Back our thoughts fly to the starting,
To the Freshman, "Soph," and Junior,
To the Senior year of high school,
And we half regret departing.
Wish we might step back a little,
But no, no, the door is closing—
We are pushed into the Future—
Let us go with lofty courage,
Ready for the work before us.

Class Poet.

History

MOST class histories are alike, but the history of the class of 1929 is somewhat different from all the rest. Now, as we stand on the plateau of our high school career, we shall pause for a few minutes and look back over our four years of high school life. The road has not been easy, for at times the hill has been very steep; and it took persistence to keep climbing. But with one resolve in our minds—"to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield"—we have finally overcome our difficulties and reached that coveted position of Seniors.

Our Freshman year in high school began over at the old Raleigh High School. The class was not organized then and had no class officers or adviser. There were no class meetings; in fact, our Freshman year was in chaos. We began as nearly every Freshman class does—"green"—but we were willing to try. Of course, it took us several days to get used to the class system, but we finally managed to get to our classes on time. Mid-term examinations came, and after "that awful week" we found that we had passed our first milepost. The spring term proved to be an uneventful one. We had gotten down to real study by that time and were ready for the exams when they came. Imagine our delight when we found that we had passed our Freshman work and were Sophomores.

As soon as the fall term started, the Sophomore class called a meeting to elect officers and an adviser. The officers elected were: President, James Kurfees; Vice President, Hubert Crow; Secretary, Turner Bilisoly; Treasurer, Nancy Knott; Critic, Wallace King. We were very fortunate in getting as our adviser Mrs. W. A. Couch, who has proved to be our greatest friend during all of our high school career. With such an untiring and helpful adviser we were led through the first half of our Sophomore year. In the spring we decided that we Sophomores would have a party, and a party we did give. It went off fine. Every one had a grand time. It was a business meeting as well as a social one, and the officers for our Junior year were elected. Charles Poe was elected President; Margaret Briggs, Vice President; Frances Maynard, Secretary; Jack Barefoot, Treasurer; and Wallace King, Critic.

Juniors! Who doesn't aspire to be one? And we, the class of '29, were Juniors. With chests slightly expanded and that "know-it-all" air we walked around the school as though we thought we were the entire school. But our new positions didn't make us so conceited that we forgot to get down to real work. Early in the fall we held a meeting and discussed ways of raising money for the approaching Junior-Senior banquet. We raised the necessary funds by having rummage sales, candy and cake sales, and giving an entertainment. Who doesn't remember "The Junior Frolics" and "Spark Plugs"? We actually caused those dignified Seniors to exclaim among themselves, "My, but those Juniors are clever! They make a success of everything they attempt." The greatest of Junior affairs came before we knew it—the Junior-Senior banquet. What a time we did have! Every one had the time of his life, and even the Seniors exclaimed how nice everything was. After the banquet we put our minds back on our books, for exams were drawing near. Then our Junior year was over, and we were prepared for the last and most eventful year in our high school career.

The glory of being Seniors! We had to pinch ourselves to see if we were really awake. To be regarded by the teachers as important was really astounding. Think we didn't use our Senior privileges! The Senior class officers were: President, Banks Young; Vice President, Mary Dwight Turner; Secretary, Agnes Moore; Treasurer, Agnes Tucker; Editor-in-Chief of Annual, Agnes Covington; Business Manager, Jack Bagby; Associate Editors, Wallace King and Mary Waring; Historian, Nancy Knott; Class Prophet, Hazel McDonald; Testator, Eugene Spivey; Joke Editor, Laura White; Art Editors, Robert Ruffner, Margie Rose Buffaloe, and Annie Joe Ware. Work on the Annual was begun at once. Money was raised by giving a musical play, "Cynthia's Strategy," and a carnival. We also had a Tag Day, and sold tags. When the Senior Superlatives were elected, there was a hum of excitement everywhere. And oh, those pictures for the Annual! The next happening of interest was the election of May Queen. After many interruptions, Annie Joe Ware was elected May Queen and Nancy Knott, Attendant.

When the Annual goes to press March 1, there will be nothing to do but make the most of our Senior privileges, pass our exams, and receive those long worked-for and coveted prizes, our diplomas.

NANCY KNOTT,
Historian.

Class Prophecy

AS I passed through the tall, majestic portals of the Hall of Mirrors, I wondered whom of my old classmates I should see. It had been eleven years since I had been graduated from Hugh Morson High, and I had a consuming desire to learn the whereabouts of my former classmates. And so I had come to this awesome place, of which I had heard so much, to learn how their lives had turned out.

Perhaps you who are reading this will wonder how I could find out all about my classmates just by going into a building. But you may recall that I was entering the Hall of Mirrors. In this building there were many, many mirrors arranged in a spacious room. These mirrors had magical powers—one could look into each one of the mirrors and there would be pictured any of one's friends in his present life work. This was truly a wonderful invention.

This room was, as I said, very large. All four walls were completely covered by mirrors in which I could see various activities. The floor was fixed in beautifully designed tiles.

We stopped before the first mirror. I perceived James Kurfees seated at a desk. He seemed to be in deep thought.

"That," my guide informed me, "is the greatest physician of the South! He was graduated from the University of North Carolina with the highest honors." I then recollected that James had once expressed his intention to specialize in medicine at Chapel Hill.

In a second mirror I saw Mary Waring, who had become head of the Raleigh Girl Reserves—her highest ambition realized! In that same mirror I saw Mary's secretary, Agnes Moore.

Another mirror portrayed Banks Young, who was president of N. C. State College. His secretary was Lucy Cobb; while his assistant was Frances Maynard. Four of the teachers out at the college were: Mary Dwight Turner, Janet Gray, Evelyn Thomas, and Sallie Council.

In the fourth mirror I discovered Annie Joe Ware, beautiful hostess of the Waldorf Night Club, of New York. Her business manager was George Ball. I learned that there was an increasing demand for her popular song-hits. She was acclaimed a second Lee Morse.

Dorothy McGee came next. She was operating a small dope-shop on the campus of State College. Across the way Louise Kennedy's dope-shop furnished interesting competition.

Agnes Covington, once editor of our high school annual, seemed to be bearing up wonderfully under the job of being editor-in-chief of Covington's Sunbeam, the most recent newspaper in Raleigh. Dorothy Merritt and Wilfred Boney were reporters on her staff, while Charles Heck was private detective for the concern.

In another mirror I saw Robert Ruffner, the most popular cartoonist of the day. Assisting him was Josephine Snell, also noted for her talent in this line.

Eugene Spivey was busily directing his newest play, "One Woman's Way."

Lula Belle Highsmith had become the great American poet.

In another mirror I perceived Agnes Tucker, who had taken over Miss Connor's geometry class at the Hugh Morson High School. Robert Covington was basketball coach there; while Jack Barefoot was the football coach. Wilmer Barnes taught French and English. The principal was Charles Poe and the student adviser Eleanor Kennedy. Charlotte Houston was directing the orchestra, Earl Williams had taken Mr. Potter's place, and Nancy Watson was teaching Miss Partenheimer's music classes.

In still another mirror there was portrayed a small and exclusive modiste shop. I discovered that Arabel Cox, after spending several seasons in Paris, had returned to our city to create for Raleigh women apparel rivaling that of Lucielle.

Elise Partin and Charlotte Penny were owners of the most popular one-ring circus of the season. Dorothea Parker, Hilda Evans, and Helen Britt were tight-rope walkers in the show. Nannie Mae Sullivan was the head midget. William Pate was the chief clown; while Rosa Caine Nottingham had charge of the hyenas. Burdette Mayne was the lion tamer. He also had charge of the monkeys and elephants.

Next I discovered that Grace Sale and Mary Louise Johnson owned a small public library in Raleigh.

Catherine Harding had become an opera star in Paris. She was of great renown; her stage name was Mile. Lavalle.

Elizabeth Weathers was student adviser at Apex High School. At the same time Irving Margulies taught German, Robert Berryman was the boys' basketball coach, and Margaret Nichols the girls'.

The next view showed me a platform built at one end of Fayetteville Street. A boxing match was in progress. The combatants were Arthur Wilson, heavy-weight champion of America, and Jack Bagby, who had a consuming desire for Arthur's title. The referee was Allen Rogers.

Pat Abernethy had charge of public physical education in Greensboro. Her assistant was Drexel Layton.

Laura White, I learned, was the famous orator over whom the country had suddenly gone wild. She lectured from morning to night.

Katherine Thiem had opened a foundling home for stray dogs and cats. Her veterinarian was Luther Yost. His assistant was Arthur Rogers.

Wallace King had turned out, as we all thought he would, to be the greatest pianist in the world. He was then on tour in Russia.

In another mirror I saw Wesley Wallace, speed king of America. He was then competing in an automobile race in New Jersey.

Margaret Briggs and Charlotte Fitzsimmons, I found, were partners in the law business. Naturally the business was very prosperous—they handled only divorces. Margaret Foster was their stenographer.

Neal Paris was a real estate agent. He could sell more lots in a day than any other company sold in a week.

Next I discovered that Mary Crow was running an attractive little kindergarten in Cary, while her brother, Hubert, owned a hunting lodge up in the Adirondacks.

Last of all I saw Louise Bridges, who had taken Louise Brooks' place on the screen.

I noticed that dusk was falling outside, so after deciding to return some other day, I left the Hall of Mirrors, well satisfied with the results of my visit.

HAZEL McDONALD,
Prophet.

Last Will and Testament

ON this, the first day of June, nineteen hundred twenty-nine, we, the surviving Seniors of the class of '29, having been duly examined by proper physical and mental directors of the Hugh Morson High School, and having been found to be of sound mind and sound body, do hereby relinquish our hold upon these things which we have worked for and earned during our eleven years (or more) of continual strife. These things we leave to the above mentioned institution.

May it be noted that if, in any way, this will is disputed as to its legality, or any argument occurs among the heirs over the distribution of the personal properties and incidentals, those things shall be confiscated by proper school authorities and sold at public auction, the proceeds of which shall go to the City of Raleigh, North Carolina, for the purpose of restoring her ancient intellectual ability.

Thus is our property divided.

ARTICLE I

To our classmates we will the following:

Section 1. A. The class as a whole leaves in trust of Annie Joe Ware the fortunes and destinies of all those who meet her.

B. Arthur Wilson donates his wit to George London in the hope that he will be able to use it more profitably than he has.

C. Sallie Council has seen fit to leave her Greek ability to Bunny Royster.

ARTICLE II

To the incoming Senior class we deem it a great privilege to leave certain personal belongings:

Section 1. The family library, consisting of Smith's Geometry, Tanner's English, Bennet's Vergil, Williamson's History, and all other books which may have increased our knowledge of the above mentioned subjects.

Section 2. Personal privileges:

A. The right to study more than usual.

B. The right to have an afternoon conference with each teacher.

C. The right to sit near, or on the front seats in the middle section of the auditorium.

D. The privilege of being adored by feminine admirers of the lower classes.

Section 3. Individual characteristics.

A. The kindness of Lula Belle Highsmith toward her fellow companions to Jessamine Bland.

B. The cordiality of Pat Abernethy to Margaret Boney.

C. The quietness of Margaret Briggs to Emily Miller.

D. Jimmy Kurfees's dignity and executive ability to Graham McLeod.

E. The personality and popularity of Annie Joe Ware to Margaret Little.

ARTICLE III

To the incoming Juniors we leave the following:

Section 1. Our gratitude.

A. To the faculty members.

B. To our classmates and associates.

Section 2: Personal accomplishments:

A. The athletic ability of Allen Nelms to Steve Stephenson, with the hope that he will display the same at the Winston-Salem High School.

B. The studiousness of Mary Dwight Turner to Rebecca Edwards.

ARTICLE IV

To our prospective Sophomores we leave those things which accumulate during that period of our life:

Section 1. Natural inheritances:

A. An undying spirit of sophistication.

B. Our pranks and jokes, to be used in case of necessity.

Section 2. Personal characteristics:

- A. The dancing ability of Nancy Knott to Sarah Olmstead.
- B. The bashfulness of Carvel Stapleford to Leon Chadwick.

ARTICLE V

To the greatest class of all, the incoming Freshmen, we leave:

Section 1. Our diligence:

- A. In listening to whatever the teachers say.
- B. In obeying orders and not following our own inclinations.
- C. In following and obeying the dictates of the upper classmen.

Section 2. Natural endowments:

- A. Mary Porter Flint's wistful and grown-up expression to Hazel McMillan.
- B. Bernard Ellisberg's gifts of argumentation to Richard Edwards.

ARTICLE VI

To our dearly beloved teachers we wish to leave some sort of remembrance in appreciation of their efforts and patience in helping us to cross another stumbling stone in life toward that goal, success:

Section 1. The student's appreciation:

- A. To Mr. Wessinger for the many things to which he has given his support.
- B. To Miss Jones for her considerate ways and well constructed advice.
- C. To Mrs. Couch and Miss Coffey, for making possible this issue of the OAK LEAF.
- D. To Miss Partenheimer, Mr. Potter, and Mr. Johnson for cultivating in us an appreciation of music.
- E. To Miss Lowe, Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Spurlock, for their efforts toward rejuvenating athletics.

Section 2.

- A. To Mrs. Barbee, we leave the younger generation to be trained and sculptured by her mind and actions.
- B. To Miss Gordner, we leave in trust the destinies of those who expect to succeed in life through the use of correct English.
- C. To Miss 'Liza, we will a class of perfect gentlemen who will not wear their shirts without ties or roll up their sleeves.
- D. To Mrs. Smith, (Miss Sims), a class that will take its history seriously.

ARTICLE VII

In order that the public may not feel slighted, as a distant relative, we leave a few suggestions:

Section 1:

- A. That they extract from North Carolina history the names of the leading men who participated in the educational movement of this state, and that they name a spacious hall in their honor.
- B. That "stop and go" signals be placed at the intersections of the halls of H. M. H. S.
- C. That elevators be installed for the sole benefit of the Seniors and Faculty.
- D. That each room be equipped with radio, not only to provide music, but also to broadcast announcements from the principal's office so that classes will not be interrupted in the usual method.

Honor Where Honor Is Due

AT the close of one of the most successful football seasons in the high school, let us stop for a while to consider the source of its success. First of all, the football squad of Hugh Morson High School has had two of the best coaches anywhere in the South; Mr. Albert T. Spurlock, who has played football in several of the leading colleges in the country, and Mr. J. Peele Johnson, who has been coaching all athletics in the high school for about four years. These coaches labored hard with their players during practice, and the results were shown when the teams went into action.

The next thing to consider is their success is the way the squad worked together. During the games the whole team ran as smoothly as a well-oiled machine. Several leading newspapers throughout the State have commented on the way the team cooperated—in fact, the back field soon acquired the name of “The Four Horsemen.” The Purple Terrors have won ten out of twelve games, tied one, and lost one. This is the best record that has been made in the high school in many years. “The Purple Terrors” won every game they played this year except two, and they tied one of those with Durham; but, through hard playing, Wilmington beat them for the eastern championship. Let us pause here for a second to summarize the games and results of “The Purple Terrors” for the season of 1928:

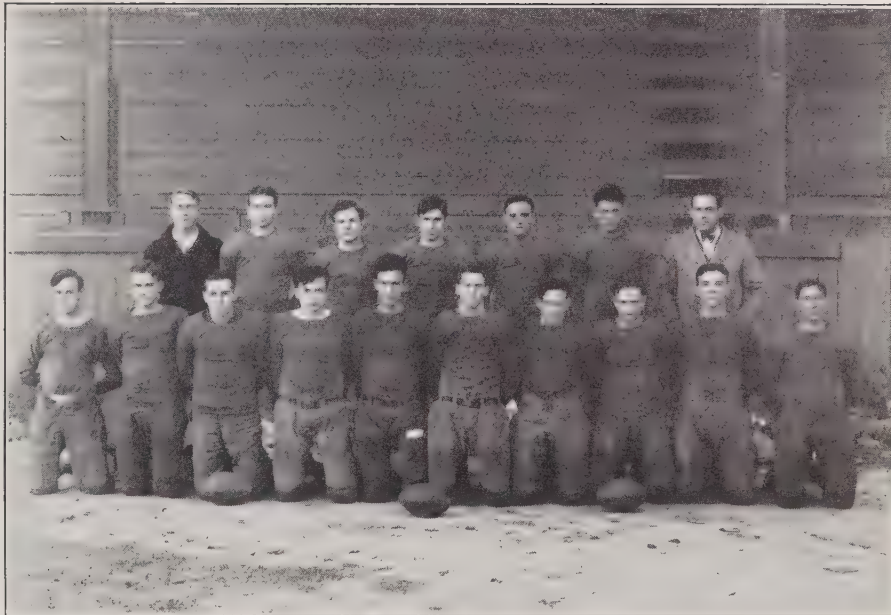

PRE-CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

Raleigh	Score	Opponents	Score
Raleigh	37	Henderson	6
Raleigh	25	Apex	0
Raleigh	14	Sanford	6
Raleigh	12	Oxford	0
Raleigh	32	Fayetteville	6
Raleigh	6	Durham	6

CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

Raleigh	Score	Opponents	Score
Raleigh	32	Smithfield	0
Raleigh	57	Henderson	6
Raleigh	19	Oxford	0
Raleigh	19	Dunn	6
Raleigh	0	Wilmington	12
Total	253	Total	48

The above figures show the success of the team. The team scored five times more than their opponents, and that is a good record.

Basketball

OLD Hugh Morson High is indeed proud of its basketball record this year. It entered both the Championship Series, sponsored by the University of North Carolina, and the Invitational Tournament, sponsored by North Carolina State College. In the first series of contests the "Whirlwind" reached the Eastern Finals, but lost when the "Old Jinx" bobbed up again. In the Tournament, however, the boys were more fortunate. After playing four great games, the Quint was declared the winner of Class A for the third consecutive year.

The entire school is proud of its players and hates to see them leave. Three of the boys have played three years and are now preparing to enter College. These players are Allen Nelms, Charlie Roberts, and Moody Smith. The school wishes them even more success in the coming years.

Now, for a word about each player. At center there is Willie Duke, who has played basketball only one year. During this time he has won much fame. He has out-jumped centers as high as six feet three inches. Willie can always be seen on the court, full of pep and ready to serve his team. Then there is Charlie Roberts, captain, who always does his part, and has led his team to many victories. In many games Allen Nelms, right guard, has been high-score man. He can be seen in all the games, dribbling the ball down to the opponents goal and ringing many baskets. It is very probable that Allen will rate an All-State berth. Next in line, is Moody Smith, left forward. On account of injuries, Moody was out of the games in the first part of the season; but he has been in all the final games. Moody always plays a remarkable offensive game. Last, there is Hubert Rand, who came from Garner. Hubert was a basketball hero in Garner, and he has retained his standing since he has been with the "Jackrabbits." The most prominent substitute on the team is Allen Rogers, who played well in any position.

Other prominent Substitutes: Charles Poe, Buck Harris, George Ball, Neal Paris, and "Nero" Cox.

A decorative illustration of a three-masted sailing ship on the sea. The ship is rendered in a dark, stylized silhouette, with its sails partially unfurled. The sea is depicted with simple, dark waves. Above the ship, there are several large, stylized clouds or billows, drawn with simple lines. In the center of the illustration, there is a rectangular box with a double-line border. Inside this box, the word "Features" is written in a serif font.

LOUIS H. WILSON, '27.

The New Canterbury Tales

(Aged and faded manuscript dated March, 1929, was found in locker 96 by L. W. W., was translated by her, and is published for the first time in this issue of the OAK LEAF.)

ONE day in ages darke—four years ago—
A groupe uv pilgrims mette, that they mite knowe
What they neede do, if they woode reech the shrine
Uv that goode saynte whom alle were fain to finde.
The way to Graduation they woode knowe,
That they mite gette Diplomas that woode showe,
In decades hence, to the unbelieving wife
That diligence each hadde showne in his past life.

They came together in olde J. H. S.
The famous Mr. Wessinger—no less—
Came down and talked, and meny wurdz were spokn
To telle them how to gette that marvlous Tokenne,
Diploma, and how Graduation's founde.
The guide spoke thus to them; they gathered round:

"If you woode reech our grayte and reverend saynte,
Thenne you must ever avoid the use of "ain't,"
In chapel, laughe at ye speaker's every joke,
E'en though you wishe sincerely he woode choke.
Remember Miss Eliza's word is law.
Avoid the Jeter—he hath a sharpened clawe.
Those things remember, and you'll gette there kwick,
Provided on this laste you do not stick:
Each yeare each of you shall take subjects four—
Or if he is ambishus, may take more—
This will bring units numbering sixteen—
Enough to lead you to the saynte, I ween."

For several hours more he rambled on
With goode advice and troo, but let's begone.
Before their graduation, alle too neare,
Let us approach them in their Senior year.

The first, Banks Young, to alle is deer—
Was chosen leader for their graytest year.
As president he hath grayte dignity,
And as a frinde is full of jollity
And love of pleasure, but will never shirk
Whenne there's an opportunitie for work.
If asked, the classe entire will telle you strate—
For they're of one opinion—"Banks is grayte!"

Then, Jimmy Kurfees is the "Official It"—
Which, so methinks, is fulle appropriate,
For Dignitie personified is he.
He is admired by alle, as one canne see.
As does befit a Council President,
Long, long ago 'most alle his faults didde wente; (poetic license no. 918573)
But one remains, though conscience is rightly clear—
His Sense of Humor is notte quite alle there.

"Little Agnes"—or "Monkey," as she is knowne—
Has been so bisy that she has notte growne,
Butte such a lotte of diligence has she
That her work equals that of people three.

(So does her talking.—Editor's note)

When Mr. Wessinger gave such good advice,
Some took his words to harte, and so, at last,
Most studious of alle the classe, we see
Mary Dwight Turner, and also Wilmer B.

The beste sporte in the classe is jollie "Pat."
Fulle loveable is she; and though she's fat,
Always in basketball she is a starre,
She's Morson president, and a goode G. R.

In this grayte classe there are more thanne a few
Whose witte is grayter thanne that of me or you—
Bob Biggs, "Fat," Arthur, Robert Berryman
Do always act as funny as they canne.

Then Annie Joe, the ever popularre,
The May Queen and the operetta starre.

(Here the manuscript suddenly comes to an end. The remainder will be published as soon as it is found by Sherlock Holmes and Philo Vance, both of whom are at present working on the case.)

Cheer up, Frosh. A busted watch is right twice a day.

The speaker of the evening had raved on for two hours. At the end of the time he said: "If I am talking too long, it is because I forgot my watch and I find no clock in this hall."

A weary voice from the audience said: "Here's a calendar, mister."

DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

From the art work and engravings to the finished book, this volume is the result of organized coöperation with the Staff.

Such able coöperation is one of the “visions” which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete coöperation from art work and engravings to the finished book, we offer unexcelled service. Complete service means undivided responsibility as to the result—one organization to correspond and talk with—one trained director, to merge the many ingredients into the finished product.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.

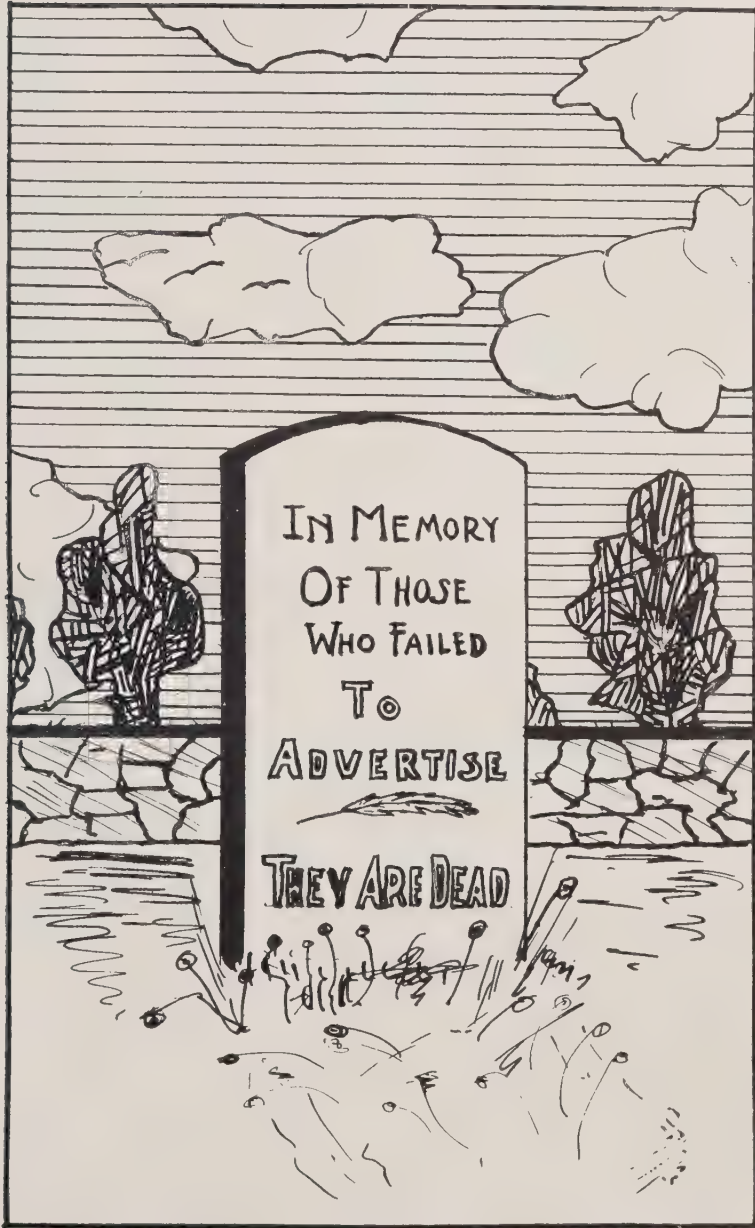

Correspondence is Invited
